

COBY OWEN

Designer

Relatively new to join the BRD Group ranks, Coby is a draftsman in the Sunshine Coast office. He has completed a Diploma of Building Design and a Diploma of Interior Design and is thrilled to be putting his theoretical knowledge to use in his current role. Prior to joining BRD Group, Coby spent some time working on a mango farm and at a local café, but he knew his passion was in building design so has chased his goals and has now landed his dream job.

Completing mostly computer-based tasks, Coby is thankful to be surrounded by a team that have endless knowledge and are willing to share that information and support his learning journey. There is always plenty of things to do and lots to learn so Coby is enjoying the challenges and expanding on his skill set. Working on NDIS projects, Coby has enjoyed stepping through the process, visualising the design and then working through each stage as the design comes to life.

In the future Coby hopes to keep building on his skills and become a valuable member of the BRD Group team as the more experience he gains, the more he feels he can impact the projects he works on. His favourite element of working at BRD Group is the collaborative environment, where everyone can bounce ideas off one another and collectively come up with a solution.

Living on the family farm outside Kenilworth, Coby doesn't spend much time aside from work in the central areas of the Sunshine Coast. On weekends you will find him camping or fishing or even gardening, but whatever it is, he will most likely be outside. Having not yet stepped foot on a plane, Coby hasn't left Queensland so hopes to one day travel, but he just has not decided where yet – the world is his oyster. A long-term goal for Coby is to design and build his own home which would be completely custom and tailored for his own tastes and preferences.
